

A circular photograph of a fairground. In the center is a large, colorful, multi-tiered structure, possibly a carousel or a decorative tower, with many small flags or lights hanging from it. People are walking around the structure. In the background, there are other fairground stalls and a large building. The photo is framed by a thick purple border.

A circular inset photograph showing a group of people practicing Tai Chi in a park. They are in various poses, some with arms raised, on a grassy field with trees in the background.
